

THIS book is not published nor sold; consequently no person can claim to possess a copy. And while it is of necessity printed, yet it is earnestly hoped by those who have the conduct of it that its essentially private character will, under no circumstances, be violated. It is compiled simply to promote the fellowship of saints separated to the name of the Lord Jesus, and the intercommunion of their respective gatherings through letters of commendation, agreeably with scriptural order and practice. Notwithstanding the failure and ruin of the Church, the pressing importance in every case of giving and receiving such commendatory letters should not be overlooked. They have, indeed, become more, rather than less, necessary in these closing days, having been inculcated and established by divine wisdom, and being the means which the Holy Ghost uses for inspiring confidence in one another to the glory of God.—Rom. xvii. 1; 2 Cor. iii. 1; Eph. vi. 21; Col. iv. 7 to 10.

It is with much solicitude pressed upon the attention of brethren that they should exercise scrupulous holy care as to the custody of the book, and rigorously restrict it to the uses indicated. Any departure from this would deeply grieve those brothers who have given their labour to the work, being a breach of the conditions under which each copy is issued.

[FEBRUARY, 1880.]

PLEASE OBSERVE that the Lord's-day evening meetings, being so generally for preaching the gospel, are not inserted. The initials which stand for Week Meetings signify as follows:—B—Brothers' meeting; G—Gospel; L—Lecture; O—Open meeting; P—Prayer; R—Reading of scripture; W—Worship meeting.

In every case where the occupation is given as well as the address of references, it is desirable that it should be included in the directions of letters; for want of this they are sometimes wrongly delivered.
